

Wolfeboro Friends of Music at 88!

'Archduke Trio'

'Masterful Interpretations of the World's Great Composers'

Wolfeboro Friends of Music continues its 88th season with one of America's most accomplished classical chamber music/ piano trio ensembles, 'The Archduke Trio'. This premiere concert takes place at The First Congregational Church, 115 South Main Street, Wolfeboro, on Sunday, February 11, 2024, at 3:00 PM.

Violinist Aaron Berofsky, cellist John Haines-Eitzen, and pianist Matthew Bengtson are each internationally acclaimed soloists and chamber musicians who have performed in major concert halls world-wide. Their recent collaboration has produced brilliant, mature renditions of the classical music repertoire.

Praised as 'Masterful' with 'dazzling technique' and 'extraordinary depth and imagination', the ensemble is technically and artistically accomplished. Together they provide a true sense of 'chamber music' at the highest level. Their frequent recording projects have been praised for technical assurance and passion, apparent in their interpretations of Mozart, Beethoven and Brahms, as well as the works of lesser known, yet equally brilliant composers.

"energetic, vibrant, technically impeccable, and in perfect coordination",

Daniel Morrison, Fanfare magazine

"Splendid... this concert is as good as any we will hear this season",

The Baltimore Sun

Individually, in addition to their accomplished international concert careers, they serve as esteemed faculty at Cornell University, the University of Michigan, and perform in such legendary concert halls and historic landmarks as Carnegie Hall and Monticello.

This is the fifth of eight concert performances comprising the current season running from Sept to May, 88 years of artistic excellence in service to NH's Lakes Region!
